

GLENRICH HISTORY

We commenced business in 1985, and formalised our trading name in 1990. From our initial involvement in building frames, doing lock-ups, and fixing work, our business grew steadily through satisfied customer referrals. During the early 1990s we began renovating flats and turning them into luxury apartments. Throughout the following five years we focussed exclusively on our own speculative developments including homes, apartments and warehouse conversions.

By the year 2000 our interests had expanded to include both speculative and development work, and we began working with property developers. Today, Glenrich have successfully merged contract and speculative developments and the company has seen a growth in full time employment from two to twelve. We are now embarking on the next stage of our expansion which sees the construction of both domestic and commercial developments.
